A despatch appeared in our telegraphic column yester-day briefly announcing the arrest of Mrs. Cuaningham, who was a few weeks ago tried for the murder of Dr. Bardell and acquitted. The particulars of her arrest, with all the astounding developments in the case, are thus given in last Tuesday evening's edition of the New

Mrs. Cunningham, her sister, and Dr. Catlin, of Brooklyn, have been arrested on a charge of being concerned in the production of a child falsely purporting to the he offspring of Dr. Burdell. The arrests were made early this morning, and produced no little excitement. While Mrs. Cunningham was confined in the Tombs on the charge of mundering Dr. Burdell, she sent for Dr. Uhl, her family physician, to attend her. Dr. Uhl, in reply, expressed his inability or unwillingness to attend without a written order from Mr. Hall, the district attorney, which he obtained. On waiting upon Mrs. Cunningham, he was asked to prescribe for symptoms similar to those a person might have who was in the family way. Upon the strength of this remark Dr. Uhl asked her if she was cocaine, to which she remarked that was a matter in which she could not give any information at present; but on speaking with Mrs. Foster on the subject, the latter intimated to Dr. Uhl that she understood that such was the case. Mrs. Cunningham, her sister, and Dr. Catlin, of ter intimated to Dr. Unit that she understood that such was the case.

After the discharge of Mrs. Cunningham from prison, she informed Dr. Unit that she was pregnant, and wished him to attend her during her confinement. The doctor said he was willing to do so, on condition that other physicians might assist him, as so much had been said of her that he thought such a precaution advisable. He further suggested the propriety of settling the fact of her pregnancy without delay. He said that he would be willing to attend her professionally for that purpose, in conjunction with two other physicians, whose names he mentioned.

conjunction with two other physicians, whose names he mentioned.

She readily acquiesced, but from that time to the present avoided all further allusion to the subject. This, aroused the dootor's suspicions, and he spoke of it to one of the gentlemen whom he designed to call in to assist him, and thought it important to hasten examination, if the fact was as she stated. Unit then consulted counsel, apprising him of the whole case, and asked what course he ought to pursue.

The latter advised caution and delay for a few days, when, if the matter did not appear right, to lay the whole matter before the district attorney. Dr. Uhl at length did inform Mr. Hall, the district attorney, of the case, made his affidavit, and wished to leave the case in his hands.

The district attorney, however, said it was a duty he owed to the public to continue in the case.

His friends counselling him to the same course, he followed their advice, and placed himself under Mr. Hall's directions. Uhl continued to call upon Mrs. Cunningham, and it was finally arranged by Mrs. C. that Dr. Catlin, of Brooklyn, should attend her and Dr. Uhl should consult with him during the fletitious childbirth. Catlin privately told Uhl that he had concocted the whole scheme himself. The district attorney then hired a room in No. 190 Elm street in the name of Dr. Montagnia, and furnished it from his own house. Dr. M. then got a new-born infant from Bellevue Hospital, together with a nurse, last night, and Dr. Uhl was sent for to go there and assist in carrying the scheme through.

Mrs. Cunningham was then given to understand that there was a woman going to be taken sick, and that the

Mrs. Cunningham was then given to understand that there was a woman going to be taken sick, and that the child could be obtained. She then intimated that she would send a lady there to look at the premises. Subsequently a lady went there to look at the place, who proved to be Mrs. C. in disguise. About 9 at night the same lady called again; was asked to walk up stairs; did so; got the child in a basket and took it away.

The detectives on her track identified her in the cars as Mrs. Campackam. She was traced to No. 31 Bond.

At this juncture the police came in and arrested her and all the parties implicated.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

The first announcement of Mrs. Cunningham's pregnancy was indirectly made by Judge Dean, in his speech before the surrogate, on the 3d of July, when he made use of the following language: "If it were true that, in the ordinary gestation, a child should be born to Harvey Burdell, then not only all the ties of blood and nature, but all the dictates of humanity, demanded that the court should lean in favor of that innocent unborn child, rather than in favor of those who have no direct claim upon the property. He would say nothing of the consequences of a decree of bastardy in advance. With consequences we have now nothing to do."

ave now nothing to do."

It was shortly after this that Dr. Uhl was sent for and It was shortly after this that Dr. Uhl was sent for and waited upon her. The doctor, it will be borne in mind, had attended Mrs. C. before the nurder, and believed in her entire innocence of that crime. He was informed by her that she was enciste by Dr. Burdell, and expected about the middle of August to give birth to a child, and desired him to become her medical attendant on that cocasion. Dr. Uhl consented. In a few days he called again, and advised with her about her condition. Upon pressing some certain medical inquiries, her evasive answers excited very grave suspicions in his mind.

In fact his faith in her innocence of the murder becames much shaken, that he determined to consult with his counsel, Mr. Wheeler. By his advice he, with much relactance, went to District Attorney Hall, about the 10th of July, and communicated his suspicions, Mr. Hall beld him that if such a thing was contemplated by Mrs. Cunningham it was a very serious felony, and referred the doctor to that section of the Revised Statutes which says:

"Every person who shall fraudulently produce an intent of below reveredings it to have been horn of presents."

THE course of instruction embraces the various branches of the common law; and of equity; admirably; commercial, international, and constitutional law; and the prisprudence of the United States. The law library consists of about 14,000 vol. umes, and as new works appear they are added, and every effort is made to reader it complete.

Instruction is given by oral lectures and expositions, (and by recitations and examinations, in connection with them.) of which there are ten every week. Two most courts are also helden in each week, at each of which a cause, previously given out, is argued by four students, and an opinion delivered by the presiding instructor. Rooms and other facilities are also provided for the club courts; and an assembly is held weekly for practice in debate, and acquiring a knowledge of parlamentary law and proceedings.

Students may enter the school in any stage of their professional studies or mercantile pursuits, and at the commencement of either term, or in the middle or other part of a term. They are at liberty to elect what studies they will pursue, according to their view of their own wants and attainments.

The academical year, which commences on Thursday, six weeks after the third Wednesday in July, is divided into two terms, of twenty weeks each, with a vacation of six weeks at the end of each term. During the winter vacation the library is opened, warmed, and lighted, for the use of the members of the school.

Arrangements are in progress which it is hoped will materially diminish the expenses of living in Cambridge.

Applications for admission, or for calalogues, or any further information, may be made to either of the professors at Cambridge.
